

DOMESTIC SECURITY ALLIANCE COUNCIL

ENHANCING SECURITY FOR AMERICAN BUSINESSES

Continuous access to shared, vetted intelligence that is not available from any other source.
Collaboration with security experts at the highest levels of government and the private sector.

The Domestic Security Alliance Council (DSAC) gives American businesses a valuable opportunity to enhance protection of their assets, employees, and proprietary information through a definitive security communications network. A strategic partnership between the U.S. private sector and the FBI, DSAC promotes the exchange of timely information to help prevent, detect and investigate matters affecting American businesses more effectively than ever before.

ENHANCING SECURITY FOR AMERICA

THE GROWING NEED FOR INFORMATION

DSAC was borne out of chief security officers' (CSOs) call for an FBI-led organization that would bridge the information divide between America's private and public sectors. The program is modeled after the Overseas Security Advisory Council (OSAC), a program under the U.S. Department of State that has helped the federal government and private companies successfully share international security information since 1985. As a technical advisor to the OSAC since 1996, the FBI is ideally suited to coordinate DSAC's work.

Because companies have had to increase their attention on domestic security in recent years, they have a greater need for shared, vetted private sector intelligence and threat information. In 2005, DSAC was formed as a partnership to address this need. DSAC consists of active, participating members from some of America's most respected companies, ranging from airlines to retailers to food and beverage corporations. Our partners represent companies of all sizes and locations from across the United States.

---

"DSAC provides timely, credible information which is instantly useful that no other government sharing program can match."

— Mark Cheviron, Vice President, Archer Daniels Midland

---

ALLIANCE COUNCIL

---

"I define the success of a program by measuring it against one question; 'Was it worth my time?' I can say without a doubt DSAC is worth my time." — Michael Mason, Chief Security Officer, Verizon

*"DSAC is more than information sharing. It is mission sharing."
— Joseph Petro, Managing Director, Citigroup Security and Investigations*

---

PARTNER BENEFITS

DSAC is the information clearinghouse for CSOs and security analysts. At no cost, our partners receive high-value benefits including:

---

RICAN BUSINESSES

---

- Centralized access to security information not only from the FBI, but from all federal government entities, including the Department of Homeland Security, FEMA, the IRS, U.S. Coast Guard, and the U.S. Secret Service
- Ongoing access to a network of diverse security experts at the highest government and corporate levels
- Continuing education for CSOs through the semi-annual Domestic Security Executive Academy at the FBI Academy, Quantico, VA
- Continuing education for intelligence analysts through quarterly regional Intelligence Analyst Symposiums
- Additional opportunities through participation in DSAC's committees

"Our success is based on our ability to work with others. DSAC is exactly what we should be doing. No organization can do it alone." — Robert Mueller
FBI Director

To learn more or to fill out a DSAC application, visit www.dsac.gov. Or, if you have questions, e-mail us at dsac@ic.fbi.gov.

MISSION

The Domestic Security Alliance Council (DSAC), a strategic partnership between the U.S. private sector and the FBI, will enhance communications and promote the timely and effective exchange of information. DSAC will advance the FBI mission in preventing, detecting, and investigating those matters that particularly affect interstate commerce, while advancing the ability of the U.S. private sector to protect its employees, assets, and proprietary information.

LEARN MORE ABOUT DSAC

Domestically chartered corporations are invited to complete a DSAC application at www.dsac.gov.

To contact DSAC directly, e-mail: dsac@ic.fbi.gov.

Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI)
Domestic Security Alliance Council (DSAC) Program Office
935 Pennsylvania Avenue NW
Washington, DC 20535

